

The Henry Street School for International Studies

A New 6-12 public school opening in Manhattan's Lower East Side

Teach students what it means to think globally and act locally!

Harvard University just announced that it needs to change its curriculum to help its students become citizens and leaders in the new global economy. New York Times April 27, 2004 "Committee Urges Harvard to Expand the Reach of Its Undergraduate Curriculum"

If it's good enough for Harvard it's good enough for middle and high school kids on the Lower East Side!

If you feel passionately about teaching as a profession and think you have the skills to help students:

- * Understand the interdependence of countries and cultures in a world society
- * Communicate with and understand the perspectives of individuals and groups from diverse cultures and help them to understand who we are as Americans
- * Become proficient in one or more world languages and an expert on one or more world cultures
- * Develop advanced literacy skills
- * Succeed in college or other post-secondary education
- * Participate responsibly and ethically as a global citizen through global and neighborhood community service

The Henry Street School for International Studies is the school you've been looking for!

If you want to work in a school where you can:

- * Help students understand world politics, culture, religion and current events
- * Support and inspire struggling learners to achieve like never before
- * Take initiative and create innovative learning experiences that take students out of the classroom
- * Join a highly collaborative team of educators
- * Share your interests with students by leading clubs, sports teams, and trips
- * Be a founding teacher who helps to shape school culture, values, and mission
- * Take advantage of exciting professional development opportunities to support and enrich your teaching

The Henry Street School for International Studies is the school you've been looking for!

We are looking for passionate, committed Middle and High school teachers of English, Mathematics, Science, Social Studies, Mandarin, Spanish, Physical Education, English as a Second Language and Special Education.

We are partnered with Asia Society – a leading force in International Education. We are supported by a grant from the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation.

Teachers must be certified or able to become provisionally certified in NYC.

Please forward this e-mail to anyone you think might help us find great candidates

Applicants should send resume & cover letter to info@henrystreetschool.org

To find out more information about HSSIS visit <http://www.henrystreetschool.org>
To read more about the need for international education read the attached article from the May 28th 2003 issue of Education Week “International Knowledge: Let's Close the Gap” By Ted Sanders & Vivien Stewart

Courtney Allison
Hoa Tu
The Henry Street School for International Studies
<http://www.henrystreetschool.org>

callison@henrystreetschool.org

cell 646.752.6056

fax 212.717.1234

school phone 212.327.9307 (machine only checked twice per week)