CHINA EXPLORATION
Learn Chinese Culture and Language

JUNE 24 to JULY 14, 2006

Organizers:
Asia Pacific Language School
Beijing Chinese Language

This is an opportunity for American youth to learn the Chinese language and culture in China. Students will gain basic knowledge of China, including geography of China, ethnic groups in China, China's history, fact of economy, people and society, government and business development. They will also learn the Chinese language, including writing of Chinese characters, and basic conversation.

Orientation

Beijing is the capital of China. Partnering with the Beijing Chinese Language College, this is a unique opportunity for American children/families to experience a first-rate Chinese learning experience. Students will take Chinese language and culture lessons in the morning. In the afternoon, students learn Chinese arts, crafts and calligraphy. They will visit the world's biggest square, Tian An Men Square, and other historical places such as Temple of Heaven, Forbidden City, Great Wall, Summer Palace, Ming Tombs of 13 Emperors, and more. Through visiting Chinese student families, they will make Chinese friends and learn how to cook Chinese food. Students will visit one of the biggest zoos in the world, Beijing Zoo, and see pandas and other rare animals in the world. In the evenings, students will be invited to watch Acrobatics shows and visit Chinese student families. We also provide a customized plan for parents of students. The final four days of the trip will be spending in Shanghai, the financial center of China.

Students and their families will have a chance to visit this famous city with over 10 million people in China and in the world. They will visit Yu Garden, Shanghai Children's Palace, the Jade Tower and view the evening scenery. They can also shop in Nanjing Road.
